

Nancy McLernon
President and CEO
Organization for International Investment

Ms. McLernon is President & CEO of the Organization for International Investment (OFII), an association representing the unique interests of U.S. subsidiaries of global companies. With a strong background in economics, her advocacy efforts focus on educating legislators on the important role U.S. subsidiaries play in the U.S. economy and policy issues that would make the United States a more competitive location for foreign direct investment and job creation.

Ms. McLernon's expertise on cross border investment trends and related legislative initiatives are often sought and cited by media outlets, including NBC News, CNBC, ABC News, The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, the Financial Times and the Washington Post. Ms. McLernon is consistently recognized by The Hill as one of Washington's top lobbyists among associations.

Prior to being named President & CEO, Ms. McLernon was OFII's senior vice president, where she focused on strategic communications and advocacy. In this capacity, she developed and successfully promoted key association messages to critical audiences, garnering broad recognition for insourcing companies, which directly employ more than six million Americans.

Ms. McLernon holds a Masters in Economics from George Mason University, where she received a fellowship from the Ludwig von Mises Institute and a B.S. in Economics from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Prior to joining OFII, Ms. McLernon was legislative director for trade policy at Citizens for a Sound Economy, a citizens' advocacy group in Washington, DC.
